Soldier runs for The Greer Foundation

Ultra-Endurance runner raises money for youth and fallen warriors

Eastman, GA – The Greer Foundation today announced that Rolando Martin, a US Army Reserve soldier, will run to support our important mission.

Martin, 39, is on a mission. An ultra-endurance athlete from Miami, Florida he is training to run the World's Longest Beach Run - the Destin 50 Beach Ultra on February 19, 2012. No stranger to the Destin 50 Beach Ultra, Martin placed 12th last year helping raise money for the Special Operations Warrior Foundation.

The run takes place on the white sand beaches of Florida and next to the emerald green waters of the Gulf of Mexico. The entire 50 miles are in the sand! Most mortals would consider that a huge accomplishment. However, Martin isn't satisfied with just 50 miles in the sand. He also plans to run the Key West 100 Miler in May 2012. The Greer Foundation is honored to sponsor Martin and humbled that he would consider supporting our mission.

“Rolando’s physical prowess is incredible. Of all the tough warriors I’ve known, few could run 50 miles in the sand!” said Dr. Steven Greer, founder of The Greer Foundation.

The Greer Foundation is a unique non-profit organization founded in 2003 to honor fallen warriors, strengthen the capacity of youth to achieve their dreams, and promote the values of the American Soldier. For more information about The Greer Foundation visit www.greerfoundation.org
